

LEMAP: Peer-to-Peer Management Guidance

Public safety agencies receive 360 feedback — invited and uninvited. University management, the student body, faculty, and community members offer advice on operations.

However, IACLEA finds that the best advice comes from those who stand where you are now, your peers. Members can give you a fresh look and a roadmap to help you improve your department's services.

IACLEA's Loaned Executive Management Assistance Program (LEMAP) is designed to assist forward-thinking agency leaders in instituting improvements and best practices in all areas of public safety department operations. Agencies who contract with IACLEA receive management consultation and technical assistance from a team of managers who are experienced with all tactical areas of campus public safety.

Agencies select the appropriate level of service. A General Survey includes extensive review and appropriate analysis of the administration, operations, and other services the agency provides. Alternatively, the agency may opt for a Special

Survey of a single or limited number of functions.

The LEMAP Team provides a confidential written report of the analysis and recommendations and, if requested, can assist with implementation of the recommendations the agency chooses to adopt.

Campus Safety and Security Is Our Business...

Let Us Help You Improve Your Institution's Effectiveness

IACLEA can help you through our Loaned Executive Management Assistance Program (LEMAP) by providing quick, quality reviews of your institution's Department of Public Safety and Security. LEMAP provides assistance in improving the administration, management and/or operations of the agency and may aid in implementing improved practices and techniques. This unique program utilizes the talents and resources of executives from campus public safety and security departments who serve as consultants.

The International Association of Campus Law Enforcement Administrators will supply a team of three professionals to spend three days on your campus reviewing all aspects of your public safety/security and/or police departments.

Ability to Recognize and Solve Existing Problems

Our standard LEMAP departmental review examines 20 separate areas, but we are flexible to limit or expand the areas reviewed based on your institution's needs.
